The screenshot shows a Windows Internet Explorer browser window displaying the QCNet website. The address bar shows the URL: <http://www.qcnet.com/EQAS/MyEQASReports/tabid/450/Default.aspx>. A warning bar at the top of the page reads: "Bylo zablokováno automaticky otevírané okno. Pokud jej chcete zobrazit nebo změnit další nastavení, klepněte sem...". A dropdown menu is open, showing options: "Dočasně povolit automaticky otevíraná okna", "Vždy povolit automaticky otevíraná okna z tohoto webu...", "Nastavení", and "Další informace". A red arrow points to the "Vždy povolit automaticky otevíraná okna z tohoto webu..." option. The website content includes the QCNet logo, a navigation menu with items like Home, Unity™ Interlab, LabTools™, EQAS, QC Education, QC Documents, Support, and Lab Admin. The page title is "EQAS » My EQAS Reports" and the date is "Tuesday, July 24, 2007". The left sidebar contains a login section for "Miroslav Janosik", a search bar, and a "Quick Links" section with items like MSDS, Product Inserts, and Upcoming Events.

To allow popup from website you want, click on the upper (warning) bar, select to allow automatically open popup windows from this web.

My EQAS Reports provides online access to your EQAS Reports. In the interest of confidentiality, only registered users will have access to their own laboratory reports.
Select a Lab Number from the drop-down list of Lab Numbers registered to you. Then select the Product, Cycle Number, Sample Number and Report Type that you wish to view.
Use the toolbar in Adobe Acrobat® Reader to zoom and search. You can select a different item from any drop-down list at anytime.
Once your EQAS laboratory number has been registered, reports for the current cycle will be posted. These reports will remain available on QCNet until the end of the next cycle.
